

Cruel Kings & Mean Queens

Post-session Reading and Vocab (lower)

Read the following extract from a BBC article, then discuss the questions below:

An 11-year-old schoolboy has been made "King of England" at a mock ceremony at Gloucester Cathedral.

Big crowds came to watch Fraser Martin, pretending to be King Henry III, being carried through the city and crowned by a local bishop.

The ceremony celebrated 800 years since the actual crowning of the nine-year-old monarch at the cathedral. Henry III ruled England for 56 years.

Fraser, who won a competition to play the boy king, said: "We had to walk about and be as rude as we could, looking down at all the normal people."

King Henry III was crowned as a nine-year old boy at St Peter's Abbey, the old name for Gloucester Cathedral, after the death of the infamous "Bad" King John.

The event in 1216 was the last time an English king or queen was crowned outside London and Westminster Abbey.

Fraser said playing the part of Henry was "really scary" but "kind of fun".

"I was just so excited," he said.
